Nickels, Cents Pour From Mints

No proof sets were struck at the Philadelphia Mint in January as both the Denver and Philadelphia Mints turned their attention to the production of cents and nickels in a big way.

A total of 128,975,000 cents were struck at both Mints during the month of January, and 29,612,000 nickels were made.

The complete mint report may be found on page 14.

Last year January saw a production of 75,525,000 cents and 20,033,500 nickels.

Denver Mint did not turn out silver coinage at all during last month. Its total production went into the output of 107,820,000 cents and 26,552,000 nickels.

Philadelphia Mint manufactured 2,000,000 dimes, 20,040,000 quarters and 2,014,000 halves in addition to 21,155,000 cents and 3,060,000 nickels.

Most Exhibits To Win Prize At Evansville

To increase the number of exhibits at the third annual convention of the Indiana State Numismatic Association, May 19-21, the host Evansville Coin Club has announced a special award for the club whose members submit the largest number of exhibits.

The Evansville club is not eligible for this award.

Exhibits will be placed in six categories, with a winner in each. Judging will be on the basis of originality and not face value, according to a report from club secretary Marie T. Gass.

Information regarding the convention may be obtained from the general chairman, Dr. C. F. Leich, 124 S. E. 1st Street, Evansville, Ind.

Also announced was the attendance record set for the Evansville club at the January meeting, when 150 were present.

Assay Commission Finds Nation's Coinage Perfect

Three members of the 1961 Assay Commission participating in the counting of the coins at the Philadelphia Mint are, left to right, August John Thom, Paterson, N. J.; Howell R. Hensley, Fort Thomas, Ky.; and C. A. Seiple, of Canton, Ohio, chairman of the commission. (Philadelphia Inquirer Photo).

Venerable Group Meets February 8

All coins perfect!

This was the formal pronouncement of the 1961 Assay Commission after it performed a traditional ceremony February 8 at the Philadelphia Mint—a check of the nation's silver coinage.

The 12-member Commission, appointed by the president, checked 38,751 halves, quarters and dimes from both the Philadelphia and Denver Mint for quality and fineness. (Bronze coins are not tested.)

These coins represented one in every 10,000 silver coins struck at the two mints in 1960. They are set aside throughout the year and placed in the symbolic "pyx" box for the ritual each February.

(The term, "pyx" box, is British, and has been used in the United States since colonial days.)

The 12 who served as members of the 1961 Commission were:

Chairman, C. A. Seiple, Canton, Ohio

Howell R. Hensley, Fort Thomas, Ky.

Chester L. Krause, Iola, Wis.

John H. Morris Jr., Homewood, Ala.

Albert Gallatin Myer Sr., Gastonia, N. C.

Randolph W. Nuckols, Richmond, Va.

John E. Power, Philadelphia, Pa.

Dr. Floyd W. Schafer, Stroudsburg, Pa.

August John Thom, Paterson, N. J.

Walter H. Woodson Sr., Salisbury, N. C.

Dr. Edwin Wichers, representative, Bureau of Standards, Washington, D. C.

Four other members appointed to the Commission did not arrive because of a blizzard which raged in the Philadelphia area February 8. They were not considered members of the official group.

Hon. J. Cullen Ganey, chief judge of the U. S. district court for the eastern district of Pennsylvania, served as the temporary chairman until C. A. Seiple was officially named chairman of the group.

Other dignitaries included Mrs. Rae V. Biester, superintendent of the Philadelphia Mint; the Hon. Ray M. Gidney, Comptroller of the Currency, Washington; Howard F. Johnson, assayer from the United States Assay Office in New York.

Rarities Dominate Sale At West Coast Convention

The Numismatic Association of Southern California will have one of the outstanding auctions in numismatic history at its March 3-4 convention when the Edwin M. Hydeman collection of United States coins will be offered.

Convention headquarters will be the ballroom floor at the Statler-Hilton Hotel, Los Angeles.

This is one of the best offerings ever sponsored by a one-state regional group of clubs, according to convention officials. They said the Hydeman collection would be supplemented by selections from other consignments.

"This will be the first time that as many numismatic rarities will have appeared in the same auction," said Abe Kosoff who catalogued the sale and who will conduct it.

Featured will be a unique pair of coins, the 1866 quarter and half dollar without motto, in brilliant proof. They are considered such important items that they will be offered both singly and as a pair. They will be sold by whichever method brings the highest bid.

These are the only pieces in existence, according to the sale catalogue, and only one collection could contain either or both, in contrast to the 1913 Liberty Head nickel or 1804 silver dollar; several of these exist.

Zebulon Club Wants A.N.A.

The Zebulon Pike Coin Club of Colorado Springs, Colo., has originated a drive to have the American Numismatic Association establish its national headquarters in Colorado Springs, according to club president Ralph Cleaver.

Plans have been worked out to send delegates to conventions across the country this year to push the project. The Colorado Wyoming Numismatic Association is also behind the move.

The 1963 national convention of the A.N.A. is scheduled for Denver, Colorado, at which time the project should reach its climax, Cleaver said.

More Votes For Listing Of Varieties

A total of 550 numismatic authorities voted for inclusion of the varieties of 1960 cents in forthcoming Whitman publications, and 510 voted against, it was disclosed today by the publishing firm.

Whitman's conducted a survey by asking collectors and dealers throughout the country to give their views on the 1960 cent.

More than a thousand votes were received and all remarks were carefully tabulated.

The majority of the respondents indicated they would not include the varieties in the 35 cent folders.

Many people answered the poll with one and two-page letters, Whitman's said. Final results will be published in a mimeographed report giving full details telling the way collectors feel about the 1960 cent varieties and other current U. S. collecting trends.

Washington Man Nominated

Eldridge G. Jones, treasurer of the Washington, D. C., Numismatic Society since 1952, has been nominated by the society for the same office in the American Numismatic Association, for the election coming up at the August convention in Atlanta.

Under signature of its president, Howard M. Rosenberg, the Washington Society has sent letters to other numismatic organizations soliciting their support in the nomination.

Fire Disrupts Florida Firm

Fire of unknown origin caused almost total loss to the apartment and office of coin dealer William P. Donlon, of Pompano Beach, Florida, recently.

"Fortunately," Donlon says, "few numismatic items were kept on the premises, but all office equipment, supplies and some correspondence was destroyed or damaged."

Filing of orders and replies to inquiries are necessarily delayed, but are being handled as rapidly as possible in temporary quarters, Donlon reports.

Coin World readers who have ordered material from Donlon recently, should write him again, if their replies seem unduly delayed, as their correspondence may have been burned.

President Thomas Jefferson was the subject selected by Superintendent Rae V. Biester for the 1961 Assay Medal, a traditional gift to members of the commission. The process of pouring gold appears on the reverse with the date and occasion.

Mrs. Biester spoke informally to the Commission during the banquet, climax of the meeting and held at the Warwick Hotel. A luncheon was arranged at McCallister's.

In her remarks she continued the theme of tribute to Thomas Jefferson, how he was quick to analyze the biggest problem facing the new nation, a need for uniform currency, and how he was responsible for the introduction of decimal currency in the United States.

"It has always been a source of amazement to me that this system has never needed to be improved upon," commented Mrs. Biester.

Acting Director of the Mint Leland Howard joined her in addressing the commission; individual members responded with expressions of pleasure for the privilege of serving on the famous body (Thomas Jefferson himself, John Marshall and Alexander Hamilton at one time were members.)

The same act of congress in 1792 that established the United States Mint provided for the annual Assay Commission. In the early days the chief justice, the secretary of the treasury, the comptroller of the treasury, the secretary of state and attorney general of the United States served. The commission has functioned for the past 168 years.

Chairman Seiple, upon his return to his Ohio home in Canton, told Coin World:

"It was a wonderful experience to serve on the commission, and a great honor to be selected as chairman."

Seiple is president of the Canton Peoples Merchant Trust Company Bank.

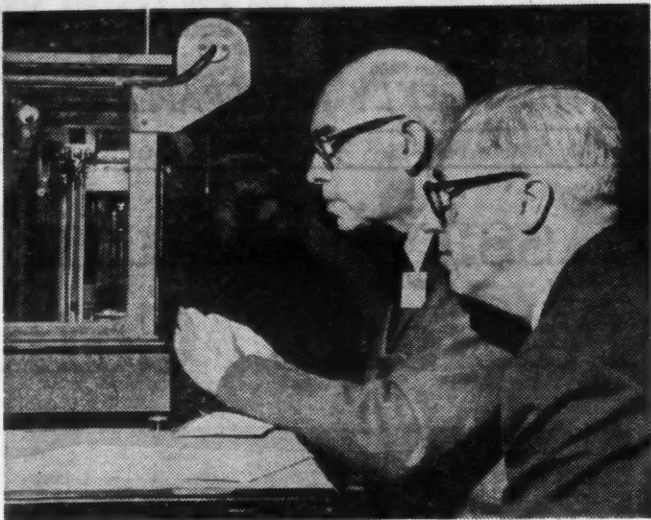

Mrs. Biester, in commenting upon the 1961 evaluation, said it was great pleasure to welcome the Commission.

"Each year," she said in her gracious manner, "I make another set of warm friends, and I am convinced that each Commission is the best!"

The American colonists were quick to throw off the British yoke in 1776, but they retained the custom of the "Trial of the Pyx," which translated into modern language means the annual evaluation of the Assay Commission.

Trial of the Pyx has been held in England since the reign of Edward I, brought over from France. It first took place in the Chapel of the Pyx in Westminster Abbey.

Scasserra Gang Goes Before Jury

All four members of a Pennsylvania coin theft gang will face the Allegheny county grand jury in March, Detective Chief James DeStout said following their arraignment February 15 in Pittsburgh.

Miss Joyce Feelo, 23, Prospect Park; David Frohlich, 54, and Frank Antonucci, 35, both of East Liberty, are charged with receiving stolen goods. Philip Scasserra, 38, Shaler Township, alleged leader of the band, faces a dual charge of burglary and receiving stolen goods.

Chief DeStout said he believed all four furnished court bond at the hearing and were free again.

(Scasserra, at the time of his arrest for the robbery of August Bamford, Munhall, Pa., coin collector January 29, has a third charge hanging over his head—the robbery of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Williams, Pleasant Hill, Pa.)

Allegheny officials and FBI authorities said they believe a set of four pattern half dollars found in possession of the quartet belonged to Herbert Baker, 1607 Kingsley Avenue, Akron, Ohio.

Baker was in Pittsburgh at the time of the hearing to make positive identification of the rarities. He read about the finding of the half dollars in Coin World Feb. 16 annual testing by weight and assay.

It is called a "trial" because the ceremony takes place in front of a jury of goldsmiths who write out their verdict for the lord chancellor. They also assay specimens from mints of the Dominions and Colonies.

Before the reign of Edward VI the ceremony was held every three months.

Dealers Up Reward Sum

Reward money for information on the Sidney Smith robbery has been increased to $500 by the Retail Coin Dealers Association.

Robbed of a $20,000 stock of coins February 1, Sidney W. Smith, Miami, Florida, dealer told police two bandits took the coins from his safe after tying him up with venetian blind cord.

The Retail Coin Dealers Association offered a $100 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the two robbers.

"We are increasing the amount to $500," said Wilson Walters, Box 536, Dennison, Texas, secretary and spokesman for the dealers association, "in an attempt to clear up this robbery right away."

Club Starts Bureau To Pool Information

Plans are being made by the East Bay Coin Club of Oakland, Calif., to establish an "information bureau" within the membership.

Purpose is to have on record the names of experts in any numismatic field that the club might contain, so that those members who have material they would like identified or attributed would know to whom they could refer.

Ohioan Points Up Need For Standard Stylization

This article criticizes dealers and publications for being careless in preparing copy for publication. The author, LeRoy Burnette, is qualified to make this observation. Writer of a weekly column, "Comments on Coins" in the Lima (Ohio) News, Burnette is an astute observer of the current coin field.—Editor.

By LeRoy Burnette

We will direct our comments to coin dealers and numismatic publishers but many coin collectors should be interested, too. Most of our remarks will come under the category of "business ethics" while some will be just plain horse-sense. Because there are many controversial aspects in numismatics, we will try to clear up confusion when and where it exists.

Next to grading, the greatest source of confusion is the widespread variations in the way advertisements are written for all numismatic publications. It seems every advertiser has his own ideas about how technical terms should be abbreviated and what symbols to use. Spelling, grammar and punctuation seems to escape many also. To be sure, coin magazines and newspapers don't cooperate in this matter either.

For example, although the Philadelphia Mint has never used a "mint mark", with the exception of the emergency composition five-cents of 1942-1945, it is frequently used in advertisements as the letter "P". Again we say, there ain't no such thing!

If the mint has been able to get along without the letter "P" on coins since 1793, numismatists ought to be able to do the same. And legitimate "Mint marks" have too many variations as to type-style.

Some advertisers have trouble making themselves understood—even when they spell correctly. Not long ago, somebody advertised a "Piece" dollar, whatever that is. Many dealers use lots of reference marks—usually without a "key" or identifying explanation. Even if they are explained, they may be different from those used by other dealers. This unnecessary rigmarole confuses.

Apparently, we are not the only numismatist who shows concern about this lack of basic fundamentals. Not long ago, we were reviewing back issues of the Numismatic Scrapbook magazine and learned that the publishers were concerned too. In the August, 1956 issue, they published brief "rules and regulations" for their advertisers to follow.

On page 1315, they published: "To avoid misunderstandings, advertisers should maintain standard use of hyphens, commas, and diagonals. A hyphen indicates 'to'. Thus, 1920-1925 indicates each date from 1920 through 1925. 1920, 1925 indicates just the two dates only. VG/F indicates the obverse is VG and the reverse is F. VG-F indicates the entire coin is in between VG and F."

The same issue carried another regulation that is worthy of note. It states: "Advertisers, please note! Pre-release offerings of 1956 half dollars will not be accepted. Sell them when they are actually in your hands." This rule is constantly violated nowadays. For several months, dealers have been advertising 1961 proof sets and none will be available until the last of February.

A simple solution to this journalistic problem would be for publishers to get together and adopt a standard "style book".

Mint Report . . .

months half dollars were produced at Philadelphia. No nickels had been struck there since September, and there was no dime manufacture during December.

Denver had ignored output of nickels, dimes, quarters and halves in December.

Last year at this time Philadelphia Mint had already struck 65,114 proof sets, and continued a gradual step-up in production throughout the year. In 1959, however, there were no proof sets manufactured during the first two months of the year.

The total value of the domestic coinage struck during January at the two Mints was $4,495,350.

There were no coins executed for foreign governments in January.

Study Shows Rarity

Study of serial numbers on paper money provides a guide to relative rarity of different notes or variations. A note of which only 3 million were issued (no higher serial number than say, B758493 known) is much scarcer than the same note with a different signature and where serial numbers B890987 through DF 234567 have been seen. Coins Authenticated With Library's Help

The story behind the 10,000 Confederate commemorative half dollars for Montgomery, Ala., unearthed by Columnist George Grim, of the Minneapolis, Minn., Morning Tribune, is an example of research cooperation deluxe.

A Minneapolis firm, the Wendell - Northwestern, makes commemorative coins—they did Hawaiian and Alaskan statehood commemoratives, for example.

But when they received an order for 10,000 Confederate half dollars, they had no example from which to make the die.

The Virginia historical society sent photostats of each side of the coin, but details were fuzzy. A shield and stalks of sugar cane and cotton surroundings were recognizable.

But what puzzled Bill Bryant, vice president of the medal manufacturers, was what seemed to be a beehive, suspended on a pole above the shield.

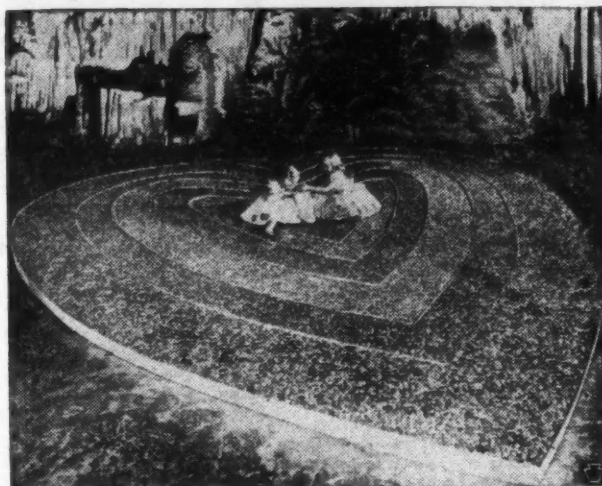

The firm could turn out a medal with the information they had on hand—but it knew collectors were sticklers for detail!

So Bryant called the Minneapolis public library.

Back came the word that only four of the coins had been minted in 1861 because bullion could not be obtained. The library said only two are known to exist. But the art department staff produced the original book from which the Virginia historical society made the fuzzy photostats.

From these nice clear pictures the Minneapolis company did an accurate job.

The beehive turned out to be a stocking cap—the kind Lafayette brought over during the Revolutionary war.

Generous Heart Of Coins

Debbie and Donna Horst, the 1961 Valentine girls for the Heart Fund, take out the last handful of coins to fill in and complete a 22-foot heart-shaped mosaic in Luray Caverns, Virginia. The heart is made up of more than 500,000 coins tossed into the Wishing Well by over a million visitors in the last three years. A check for $14,218.86, value of coins, is to be given to the American Heart Association by Luray Caverns.

Elkhart Group Organizes Club

Elkhart, Ind., has a new coin club, organized recently, with the name Michiana Coin Club of Elkhart. First meetings were held at John Keester's Coin Shop, 1218 W. Franklin Street.

Officers for the first year were chosen, headed by Robert J. Coates as president. Others include William C. Wright, vice president; Paul A. Monteith, secretary, and Gerald Cook, treasurer.

Collectors interested in the new club are invited to contact Keester.

Anguilli New Club President

Eugene Anguilli was elected president of the Passaic County, N. J., Coin Club during the club's seventh annual banquet meeting in Clifton, N.J., in early February.

Chosen vice president was Howard Lanza, while Joseph De Ghetto was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Master of ceremonies at the banquet was Leon Rosenbloom, who presented the retiring officers with gifts and "honorable recommendations". Each of the 45 members and guests attending received a souvenir of the event.

1944 Steel Lincoln Cent On Market

One of the rarest numismatic errors, the existence of which has been forecast by Walter Breen, numismatic authority, but never before placed on the open market, has turned up in the possession of Q. David Bowers, coin authority of Binghamton, N. Y., a 1944 Lincoln cent in steel.

Breen, in reporting on the 1943 cooper cents, stated that these errors were unique in that the only way in which they could have occurred would have been from planchets from the previous year having been left in the hoppers and not noticed when the new planchets were supplied.

He also stated that the same thing would apply to 1944 steel cents and he anticipated that a few would turn up sometime, but to his knowledge they never had. Yeoman's Redbook acknowledges their existence.

Bowers now authenticates one, and states that in his opinion it is rarer than the 1943 bronze cent, and is less subject to fabricating or counterfeiting. He says of his 1944 example:

"It is a genuine piece, struck on a zinc-coated steel planchet of 1943. It is not as sharply struck as a regular issue 1944 cent as the pressure on the dies was adjusted for bronze metal, a much lighter pressure on the dies was adjusted stamp steel planchets."

Bowers has put a value of $625 on his coin, which he grades as Extra Fine, with some lustre. This compares with the price of $700 paid for a 1943 copper cent recently in a Texas auction.

Readers: Our Best Friends

The February issue of Publication Management—one of those inevitable trade publications that is "must" reading by everyone in the field—contained an article entitled "Let Readers Help Build Circulation."

Dick Johnson

The article was written by Professor Frank W. Rucker of the University of Missouri School of Journalism. Professor Rucker outlined three things for newspapers to do for readers.

The first was: Let the reader help make the publication. Of course, the obvious "letters to the editor" was mentioned. Here at Coin World, we receive many such letters each week and it is a pleasure to pass these on to our readers.

We pull no punches here! Letters critical of Coin World have just as much chance of appearing in print as do complimentary letters. (In fact, even more so! The current ratio is forty-to-one in favor and we can't print all the roses and cherry letters.)

Readers contribute many worthwhile ideas for stories, send news clippings, tips, and even pictures and stories. "Readers" says Professor Rucker, "become a part of it (the paper), actual members of the staff and perpetual promoters."

"Help the reader to acquaint his friends with your publication," was the professor's second point. "Every subscriber knows persons whom he wishes were enjoying the publication with him. He will tell them how much he likes certain editorials, features, and the like, and he would go so far as to suggest they also should be subscribers if he were given a little assistance."

Nothing could be truer! We find, despite the hundreds of dollars we put in promotion campaigns, collectors usually subscribe at the suggestion of another collector. Some even go so far as to pay the friend's subscription.

Coin World's bonus plan of a subscription to a friend for half the period of the original subscription has been extremely successful. This has brought many new collectors into the field, created friendships between Coin World and new collectors, and developed appreciation between the two collectors themselves. Many of you who receive Coin World this way can attest to the popularity of this plan.

Professor Rucker's third point was: Let the reader do some direct selling. While we don't want readers going door-to-door hawking Coin World, we would like for you to tell your friends about coin collecting and about Coin World in particular. If you enjoy it, why wouldn't you enjoy it more if your friends took it too?

The result of Professor Rucker's article was the Coin World ad on page 13. Our current circulation as of 5 o'clock, February 16 was 42,104. While this is the highest number of paid readers for a coin publication anywhere, we believe that there are thousands more who would like to know about Coin World if a friend would drop the hint in their ear.

We are asking our readers, everyone of you, to mention Coin World to your friends within the next seven weeks. At the end of this period we will celebrate our first anniversary. We would like 50,000 readers on that date.

A critic has questioned our desire for that many readers. "If you are so hell-bent for 50,000 subscribers," he says, "why don't you call in a news distributing company and flood the newsstands with copies?"

While several newsstands in the country do carry Coin World, we feel that direct contact with the possible subscriber is best. Most often this direct contact comes from a sample copy, or a friend's suggestion.

We have supplied thousands of sample copies to conventions, clubs, etc., now we are asking you readers to tell your friends about Coin World.

"Readers," says Professor Rucker, "are a publication's best friends; they also may be its best salesmen." Is the professor right?

Letters To The Editor

I know now that no one is immune from (robberies) or their re-occurrence. I had this thought in mind with your paper's coverage. Perhaps a drive could be started to enroll members to self-insure themselves.

Of course, this is to a point because all members do not have the same size collections or amounts involved, but if say 3,000 would subscribe and in the case of a robbery anyone who would head this movement could take from a fund which would be the same as an insurance fund with dues perhaps of 50-cents or $1 per month.

It is too late for me (Mr. Lamb was robbed in mid-December) but I would be the first to apply if such a movement could be got underway and your correspondence would be greatly appreciated on this. Also I would help in any way I could to perhaps remove the sting from some other person who might be unfortunate the same as I.

If one does have insurance and the claim is large, the insurance company will cancel them out. This way there would be no cancellations. Of course, without working out a plan there would be many fallacies and unscrupulous persons could collect much more than they lose.

Have been receiving Coin World for only a few weeks now and already I am convinced that it is the best numismatic newspaper that I have read yet.

I have just read the letter sent to you by Douglas M. Teeple concerning coins with altered dates. The article was very interesting and very true. The altering of coins is ruining this great hobby of ours. In regard to these postage extra fellows, they are only driving away business and for the sake of a few cents. Can they be this hard up?

Now I have one more item to get off my chest. What have the big boys got against these small date cents? As for me I can see nothing wrong in collecting them. Anyone with a decent pair of eyes can see a very obvious difference. I don't say all this because I have several rolls because I don't.

Jim Moore
Canton, Ohio

I read your paper every week and I think it is the finest numismatic publication on the market today. I notice that a good portion of your advertisers sell rolls and proof sets, some exclusively and others along with the regular circulated coins. I just thought they might like a helpful tip on how to ship these rolls and proof sets.

Before mailing, rolls must be wrapped securely, then placed in a heavy-duty cardboard box to avoid breaking or otherwise ruining the shipping container. Instead of using these boxes, I have found it very convenient when shipping coins, particularly rolls, to place the coins in padded shipping bags.

These bags can be used just like regular envelopes. The rolls are merely inserted into the bag (they come in many sizes, from four inches by eight inches to 14 1/2 by 20 inches) the ends of the bag sealed with tape or staples or both and the bag mailed as an envelope.

I read with interest your editorial on better banking relations which I hope will help bring about a better understanding between coin collectors and Bank personnel.

The problem in our bank is the teenage collectors who descend upon us two and three at a time, usually at the busiest time of day, and go from window to window gathering up rolls, checking them and returning them, without leaving the Bank.

In this respect, they are pests, as the article in Mid-Continent Banker implies.

They take our tellers away from more important duties and delay our regular customers, whose time is much more valuable, from obtaining prompt service.

However, we have never been anything but courteous to these young numismatists and have many times gone out of our way to be helpful to them.

The recent cases which you point out in your editorial are, in my opinion, isolated cases and not typical of modern banking practices.

The charge that banking personnel are demanding an under-the-counter premium for uncirculated rolls, is in my mind, ridiculous. This could only be done by some unscrupulous person who is pocketing the profit without the knowledge of other banking personnel.

And the Pennsylvania bank that was charging their lady customer a service charge for rolls of coins has probably lost a good customer.

In conclusion, in the highly competitive field of banking, we feel that each one of these collectors is a potential customer and that it is only good public relations to take care of their needs.

I have received your paper since the very first issue through a free subscription by a kind and thoughtful friend and enjoy it very much, especially the informative articles. My husband and myself are still beginners as collectors and have found your publication very helpful to us. Of course, we plan to renew before our subscription runs out.

Screening dimes the other day, I came across a cent ground down to dime size: a really professional job. However, this painstaking individual might find it profitable to read Coin World before he starts grinding cents into dimes. He just ruined a beautiful 1911-S!

You could have an entire issue about Mrs. Rae V. Biester which appeared on Page 10 of the January 12 issue and you would only scratch the surface for what she means to the employees of the Mint. No other person will ever be found that can fill her place with the Mint employees as she has been a wonderful Christian if there ever was one. God bless her!

Collectors' Clearinghouse Confirmation Received On Steel Cent Retirement

In comment on our reply to the question from John Rodkey of Columbia, Pa., printed in this column on February 9, Barry J. Lipson, Brooklyn, N.Y., writes: In June, 1956, I was conducted on a private tour of the New York Federal Reserve. In the coin counting room I saw an employee separating steel cents from bronze. I was told that he had a daily quota to fill, and that these steel cents so separated were then retired from circulation.

I hope this information helps to answer the question raised (by Mr. Rodkey).

COMMENT: Thank you, Barry, it definitely does. There is no implication that the steel cents were worn ones, merely that they were being retired from circulation on a regular basis, regardless of whether the "word" has gone to individual banks or not. "Verbun sap. etc."

Quite a few readers, stirred up by the recent rise in popularity of the 1945 "micro S" dime, have written in about other dates of various coins, on which the mint marks vary in size not to mention position.

Among the writers are Michael Goodman, Fresno, Calif.; John Leland, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Mike Podkoryak, Oshkosh, Nebr. (we have always thought Wisconsin had a monopoly on that town); and many others, including Bernice Gregich who was answered February 9, but for whom this reply is better.

Among the coins quoted were large and small "S" on 1941 dimes, Lincoln cents, and nickels; 1934 Liberty walking half dollar with large and small "D", and so on.

COMMENT: Quoting to some extent from the September 29 issue of Coin World, page 24:

Variations have always been with us. The 1840-O dime had large and small "O"; in 1941, medium and small, and in 1959, all three sizes. In 1917, there was a "near" and "far" "S", with the "Near S" being smaller, and also scarcer.

The 1941 issue was characterized by a small and large "S", the large one being scarcer. In 1945, the small mint mark was scarcer.

The reason for variation in size and position of mint marks lies in the manufacturing process. All dies are made in Philadelphia, and have NO mint mark.

Briefly, a master die is made from which no coins are ever struck for circulation. But "working dies" are made from the master die, and these are shipped to the branch mints. Before they are shipped, a hand punch with a mint mark letter on it is used to strike the mint mark on the working die intended for a particular mint.

The hand punch may become worn and have to be replaced. The new one may or may not have the same size of letter on it, which accounts for that variation. Since the mint mark is punched in by hand on the working die, the chances of a difference in position are endless.

Whatever position the mint mark is in will remain for the life of that particular die, which may be 400,000 strikings or it may be more or it may be less. (Continued on Page 27)

British Free Young Dealer

Kenneth W. Rendell, 17, Medford, Mass., student, was back in the United States after he pleaded guilty to stealing coins worth more than $10,000 from two London, England, dealers.

After Rendell paid $86.80 in court costs, the U.S. consulate booked him a plane seat.

"I can't say why I did it," the youth told London police. "It just came to me." He readily admitted the thefts.

He went to London with $1,000 to buy coins, according to his attorney. After selecting some to buy, he stole $8,942 worth of coins from one dealer, $459 from the same firm the next day, and $1,464 from a second dealer.

According to Rendell's lawyer, the young man has built up a coin dealership into a $75,000 to $80,000-a-year enterprise. He started it as a hobby at the age of nine, and by the time he was 12 he had expanded his collection enough to start a business.

THE POTAWATOMI MUSEUM

ANGOLA 3, INDIANA

PRESENTING A NEW KIND OF COIN BOOK FOR ALL COLLECTORS, INVESTORS AND COLLECTOR-INVESTORS!

UNCOVERED!

The prices of uncirculated U.S. Coins for each separate year since 1935! A fascinating year to year history of coin prices that will open your eyes! Learn what the yearly price change percentage has been on each coin. Many surprises in figures revealed!

WHAT WILL YOUR EXPENSIVE COLLECTION, YOUR COIN INVESTMENTS, BE WORTH IN THE YEARS AHEAD . . . WHAT ARE THEIR "MATURITY" DATES AND VALUES?

For the first time this priceless data is made available in "The Profit March Of Your Coins From 1935 To 1968." Here you will find a scientific and accurate scale of future values based upon what each coin has done in the past. Up until now such predictions were based on the mere pulling of a hypothetical figure out of the air. You'll see how coin prices change over the years, the price change percentages, coinage totals, projected prices from 1961 to 1968, comments on the future . . . on each and every uncirculated coin, roll, or proof set.

Reading this guide will leave you with a new respect for your investment.

You'll see what the prices were back in 1936, 1945, 1950 . . . or any other year! How they have changed, startlingly, in the thirties, forties and fifties . . . and what they will be in the next four or eight years!

Up until now, the factors involved in coin futurities have not been presented so there has been no yardstick with which to measure the possibilities. Now revealing pages mathematically prove that most investments in coins will, regardless of present confusion, produce future yields that will far exceed expectations!

Not only the coin investor, but the collector should have this guide in his possession! Collections have a way of growing and growing until they represent a tremendous investment. If you have such a valuable collection or have set aside rolls, you should know how long it will be before your coins are worth a certain amount of money . . . enough, perhaps, for college educations . . . travel . . . emergencies . . . or even partial retirement (it has been done). You'll get the answers when you have this unusual book before you. You will be shown the individual price pattern of each coin, the length of each cycle and the frequency of change. With this set pattern you can observe how long the upsurges and the downsurges lasted in the past and govern future actions accordingly.

"THE PROFIT MARCH OF YOUR COINS FROM 1935 TO 1968"

LEARN WHICH COINS ARE LIKELY TO INCREASE IN PRICE FIRST. WHICH WILL OFFER THE BEST SECURITY OVER THE YEARS.

Inasmuch as the past is but a mirror of the future, it would behoove any coin collector or investor to seriously review the past price history! Such records have always been available in other investment fields! Now for the first time you have the same opportunity! Don't guess or worry any longer because of a lack of investment knowledge!

GET THE FIRST AND ONLY GUIDE OF ITS KIND!

Trends Of Today's Coin Values

Cycle Of Commemoratives Given

By Jim Kelly

333 W. First St., Dayton 2, Ohio

In both price and interest, most series of U.S. coins have followed a fairly regular pattern, a fact which many collectors and speculators have overlooked when buying for investment.

During the twenty-five years I have worked as a professional numismatist, this has been true in practically every series, with proof sets and commemorative half dollars being a classic example. This may be accounted for by the fact that both are prime collectors' items as well as attractive to the investor.

Jim Kelly

When I first started in business in 1936, commemoratives were in great demand and reached prices that in a few instances have not been surpassed even today. The market finally became saturated and many speculators lost money instead of reaping the big profit anticipated. The reaction was even greater than on the recent small date cents.

The commemorative series was dormant until the 1945-46 season when two new issues, the Iowa and Booker T. Washington, revived considerable interest. This continued until the 1951-52 season when collectors became disgusted with the Washington-Carvers and the fact that no new issues were able to get official recognition.

Due to favorable economic conditions, and the efforts of several dealers to support the market, commemoratives did not decline to the extent that they did in previous cycles. But there was certainly a lack of demand and interest in this series.

During the past year commemoratives have again become popular; they are bringing high prices and all indications are that they will continue to do so for the balance of this year and possibly longer.

The reason for pointing out the ups and downs, or the cycle, which this series has taken is to show in a general way how most U.S. series have and will likely continue to fluctuate in price. It would seem the profitable method of buying would be to acquire a series when it is at low ebb and available at moderate prices rather than wait for it to become popular and high in price.

Naturally, to buy low and sell high is a sure way to success!

Victim Of Robbery Proposes Coin Brand

I. K. Stevenson, prominent Sarasota, Fla., numismatist, victim of a brutal robbery and beating February 1, has suggested a measure to the American Numismatic Association that he believes will make disposal of stolen coins almost an impossibility.

Stevenson, who lost $9,000 in coins when a man and a woman pushed their way into his home, threatened him, beat him and bound him to a chair, suggests A.N.A. members be assigned a symbol as well as a number.

"This symbol, similar to the chop marks used in the China trade, and applied to our old trade dollars, could be applied to our own rare coins," Stevenson proposes.

"If the A.N.A. would set forth a policy that would be recognized by all dealers and collectors, that the appearance of these symbols on the reverse of all valuable coins would not be construed as damaging or mutilating these coins and not be considered as harming the trading of these coins," Stevenson said, "It would be almost impossible for a thief to dispose of these branded coins!"

Stevenson said if a member wished to dispose of his "branded" collection a legitimate bill of sale would accompany the coin and its history and original ownership would always be on record.

"With the rash of coin robberies in the past year, something is necessary to protect the collector or he is going to be frightened away from a hobby that gives so much pleasure and also a livelihood to so many legitimate dealers," Stevenson avowed.

Irvin K. Stevenson

He said several of his friends criticized him for having a collection of this size in his home, saying he should have kept it in a safe or in a bank vault.

"If coin collecting gets to a point where it cannot be worked with and enjoyed and shown to friends at will, then it no longer is a hobby," declared the Sarasota man.

"Then it becomes 'hoarding' in a vault like a miser hoarding his gold and sitting and gloating over his cached fortune.

"Even if I had a safe," continued Stevenson, "I assure you with a knife in my belly I am not brave enough to have withheld the combination or who knows what would have happened had I said my collection was in a bank vault.

"Instead of just being beaten I might have been killed had they been frustrated in the obtaining of my collection because the large Negro was mean and even enjoyed beating me when I was tied up and they got what they came for.....

"If sufficient publicity were put behind this branding idea thieves would think twice before robbing collectors and dealers of their coins as they would realize there would be no market for these stolen coins," observed the Sarasota Coin Club vice president.

Exhibit Invitation Open For Los Angeles Conclave

A general invitation to exhibit at its sixth annual convention March 3-5 in Los Angeles has been issued by the Numismatic Association of Southern California. Membership in a California coin club is not a requirement.

Exhibits will be divided into 13 classifications for individuals and clubs, including miscellaneous that would cover any display in the field of numismatics.

Rating will give the most stress to educational value, and the least to the relative condition of the material displayed, according to the announcement. Classifications include:

1. U.S. and foreign gold; 2. U.S. coins, sets, proofs, types, etc.; 3. U.S. Currency; 4. Foreign currency, including War Issues; 5. Modern foreign coins; 6. Medieval coins, 700 A.D. to 1500 A.D.;

7. Ancient coins, 750 B.C. to 700 A.D.

8. Medals and medallion art; 9. Mint errors, coins and currency; 10. Unusual media of exchange; 11. Specialized displays not included above; 12. Club displays, open category; and 13. Professional group for dealers, wholesalers or anyone making a business of numismatics. A first, second and third in each class will be awarded, and a best in show from the firsts.

Basis for judging will be on the following scale: numismatic information, 30; originality and effectiveness of arrangement, 30; range and variety, 15; neatness and eye appeal, 15; and relative condition of material, 10.

Reservations for exhibit space should be sent to Paul Newell, exhibit chairman, 18004 Duncan, Reseda, Calif. All exhibits will be under the supervision of the N.A.S.C.

Washington Club Invites Area Guests

The Washington, D. C., Numismatic Society has issued a special invitation to all numismatists who might be visiting Washington, and to all collectors living in the area, to attend the next meeting of the group, set for Monday evening, March 6, in the Natural History Building of the Smithsonian Institution.

Since Washington naturally attracts visitors, and because there are many part-year residents who may be collectors, who may not know of the Society's meetings, the invitation is made public.

At the last meeting, in early February, Dr. George Fuld, president of the recently organized society of collectors of Tokens, medals and obsolete currency, was the main speaker, on the topic "U.S. Coinage—Past, Present and Future."

Also, at the last session, members of the society voted an honorary membership to D. Wayne Johnson, editor of Coin World, and an ex-member of the society. He was nominated for the honor by the board of governors who felt that he contributed more to the numismatic field in 1960 than any other individual.

Papal Coins Reported Gone

Coin World has been enlisted by a Florida collector, whose numismatic hobby is twice as important because of a physical handicap, to help locate two papal states coins from the Vatican, dated 1673 and 1848-47, missing from the reader's home.

Coin World will relay any information concerning these lost coins, described as about the size of a quarter, struck in copper, with the word, "ferrari" on the reverse of one and "Baiocchi" on the other. Both bear the papal coat of arms on the obverse. They were a gift from a deceased friend, the collector explained, and have been missing several weeks.

FACTS You Should Know About COIN CLEANERS!

For years coin collectors have searched for an all purpose cleaner that was SAFE! Many dollars were spent for products that made fantastic claims. At COINEW we suspect that many valuable coins have been discolored and stained in ways that brought disappointment and disillusionment. Some coin cleaners are good . . . no question about it; but we believe that many do not perform in accordance with the claims made.

Some products are falsely colored with ingredients that are absolutely unnecessary in the cleaning process. Some are messy to use and require extensive rubbing. Others are ineffective paste. Recognizing the need for a coin cleaner that was completely safe and effective, too, COINEW went to work and searched the nation for the ingredients that would solve the coin cleaning problem . . . once and for all!

We have found these ingredients! We have named it COINEW. It is so remarkable in its action that we are afraid collectors won't believe us when we describe what it can do. Sometimes words lose their real meaning because people are fooled by them so often. (Fantastic, amazing, magical, etc.) We hesitate to use such words even though they are truthful when associated with COINEW.

COINEW IS A REAL SHOCKER! COINEW is a clear liquid. (No artificial coloring to deceive). It is simple and quick in its action. YOU JUST DIP THE COIN . . . THAT'S ALL! Rinse it off and there you are. Filthy uncirculated coins once again reflect the bright frostiness they had when they first left the mint. But that's not all. COINEW does a dandy job on XF and AU coins as well. Believe it or not, it works beautifully on any kind of coin. Try it on gold, silver, nickel or copper. Even zinc coins snap back to their original beauty. What more can we say? You have to see it work on your own coins to believe it.

One dollar buys a bottle of COINEW at your local dealer . . . enough to clean hundreds of coins. If COINEW doesn't do all we claim, just return it. You will obtain an immediate refund. We know we are secure in offering a money back guarantee. COINEW is revolutionary . . . after two years of testing, we know we've got a good thing! You don't risk a thing when you purchase COINEW. You are simply making an intelligent investment that can pay for itself over and over again . . . because your coins will be worth more!

NOTE—If your dealer has not yet stocked COINEW, we will be happy to promptly furnish you a bottle at the regular price of $1.00 plus 25c to cover postage and handling.

The charter was closed with 43 members. Meetings are held the third Tuesday of each month in the W. T. Grant building on South Third Street, at 7:30. Visitors are welcome, and memberships are open to collectors from 12 years of age up.

Among "finds" reported in recent meetings of the club, is an 1839-O half dollar in EF condition, found by Oder. He suspects that it could only have come from someone's collection, either stolen or accidentally spent.

Hundreds Attend Show At Rochester, Michigan

Based on registrations only, between 400 and 500 visitors attended the second annual Coin Show sponsored early this month by the Rochester, Mich., Coin Club.

Federal Reserve Has Money To Burn!

Destruction Procedure Art At Fed Center

The Federal Reserve Banks collect currency—and they specialize in soiled, torn and mutilated bills!

Unfit money that comes into the Federal Reserve Banks over the nation in the currency shipments from member banks is removed from circulation.

These bills include all the principal types of "pocketbook money"—Federal Reserve notes, silver certificates and United States notes.

Commercial banks prefer to keep only enough money on hand to meet their normal needs, so every day they send currency to the Federal Reserve Bank in their district.

Most of the larger denominations are bills issued by the Federal Reserve Banks. All those less than $5 are issued by the Treasury.

The average life of a $1 bill is about 15 months, according to the Federal Reserve experts.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, typical of this operation, and its branches cancel about 600,000 pieces of currency every day. In 1959 the Richmond bank canceled 74 per cent of the $1 bills and 54 per cent of the $5 bills received.

Reason for this large proportion of unfit bills, according to Federal Reserve officials, is that many banks keep their good used money and send the Fed a great deal of unfit currency.

Banks would rather have good used money than new bills which are stiff and hard to handle, the Federal Reserve staff points out.

Federal Reserve notes are not destroyed by Federal Reserve Banks, however.

By law this function is performed by the Treasury.

Before shipping the old currency to Washington, the Fed takes precautions against theft enroute.

Money to be shipped to Washington is cut in half lengthwise after having been canceled. The two halves are sent to the Treasury in separate shipments.

The lower halves are shipped the day the money is cut; the upper halves are sent only when word is received that the lower halves have arrived.

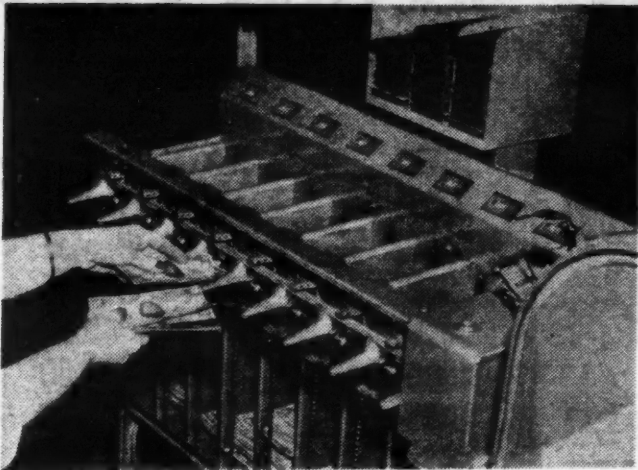

Jamboree To Be Held On May 28

The Fox Valley Coin Club of Appleton, Wis., has announced its third annual Coin Jamboree for Sunday, May 28, at the Conway Hotel, Appleton.

Included on the program will be an auction, lunch, special awards, exhibits and bourse. Requests for bourse table reservations should be sent to bourse chairman Russell A. Selig, 1715 West Franklin, Appleton. They will be filled in order of receipt.

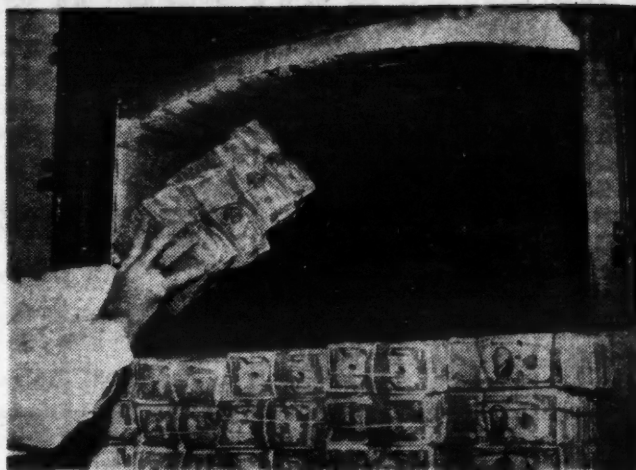

A sample of European numismatic humor, this cartoon appeared in the Lausanne Illustrated, and was reprinted in the August, 1960, issue of the Swiss Numismatic Review. The sign reads: "Numismatist."

Here a clerk at the Richmond Federal Reserve Bank counts the money sent in by member banks. Bills in poor condition are culled out and sorted as to Treasury currency or Federal Reserve currency.

The Federal Reserve Banks are authorized to destroy unfit Treasury currency. These bills are put through a machine which cancels them by punching several holes of a distinct shape through each bill.

The canceled Treasury currency is sent to the Currency Verification and Destruction Division of the Bank where it is counted again and burned. After the money has been reduced to ashes these ashes are sifted and any fragments found are burned again and completely destroyed.

Federal Reserve notes bound for the Treasury and destruction are cut in half lengthwise after cancellation and sent to the Treasury in two shipments, separated this way: The lower halves go the day the money is cut; the upper halves are sent when notice is received the lower halves have arrived.

Q. David Bower Starts Series For Coin World

By Q. David Bowers

In this column we will endeavor to explore the most interesting aspects of coin collecting the why, wherefore and history behind various pieces.

Someone once said that a collector should be able to "tell a story", to give the history and background of every coin in his collection to be worthy of owning the various specimens.

Who designed the Continental dollar?

Why were United States rarities restruck in the U. S. Mint in the 1860's and 70's, and were they restruck with official knowledge?

Why did the government discontinue the use of copper-nickel in preference to bronze for cent coinage in 1864?

Why were only 24 dimes struck at the San Francisco mint in 1894?

What happened to the gold bars produced by the Confederacy at its assay offices in Dahlonega, Charlotte and New Orleans?

Why is the 1799 cent rare when nearly a million cents were struck that year?

Why did the U. S. Mint wait until 1795 before coining the first gold pieces?

If these questions raise an interest and curiosity in your mind, then this column is for you.

What is the most desirable United States silver coin? Recent auction events might lead you to suggest the 1804 dollar. Or perhaps the 1876-CC 20 cent piece, the 1838-O half dollar or the 1827 quarter. Ideas have changed since 1883 when Harold P. Newlin printed 100 copies of a 23-page treatise entitled "A Classification of the Early Half-Dimes of the United States."

Newlin stated that: ".....the 1802 half dime is the most desirable of the silver series. My reason for giving it the most exalted place, I will endeavor to explain. If a collector were asked to name the four rarest American silver coins, he would, I am sure, naming them in order of their denominations, say: the 1804 dollar, 1823 quarter, 1827 quarter, and 1802 half dime. I will assume that these are the rarest.

"The 1804 dollar has been restruck. The dies were not destroyed until the year 1860, and I believe the pieces were restruck from the dies, upon two occasions, a short time prior to this year. Disgraceful as the fact is—true it is, that these pieces were restruck in the United States Mint by some of its employees, no doubt, for the purpose of speculation; and a restruck specimen now graces the Mint Cabinet, and is described in most glowing terms to strangers, as one of the most valuable pieces in the collection, worth no doubt, one thousand dollars.

"The custodians of the collections know full well that their piece is a restruck, for I am indebted to one of them for this information. I wonder that they allow the piece to remain, testifying as it does, to the past queer doings of the mint.

"The 1827 quarter has also been restruck. The 1823 quarter is struck from the altered die of the quarter of the preceding year and possesses no characteristics of its own. The 1802 half dime is open to none of these objections. It has never been restruck. The dies were made for that year and were destroyed. I have seen many dangerous counterfeits of the 1803 dollar and 1823 quarter, but have never seen one of the 1802 half dime.

"Upon these facts I base my opinion, that the half dime of 1802 is the most desirable of the silver series."

So runs Newlin's argument. that the 1802 half dime catalogs Looking in the Guidebook we note $350 in Good condition and $675 in Fine condition. We wonder what Mr. Newlin would say today if he knew that an 1804 dollar sold for $28,000 at auction and that his favorite coin was worthless than a $2 roll of nickels (1939-D) scarcely 20 years old.

We read recently in the Coin World that the mint has orders for nearly three million 1961 proof sets.....which is the equivalent of about 75 sets for every reader of this newspaper.

We have in our library a book with the self-explanatory title of "Extraordinary Popular Delusions and the Madness of Crowds." Perhaps it contains the answer. Evidently nearly everyone has forgotten that time late in 1957 when proof sets of that year (Proof mintage: 1,247,952 sets) were going begging at less than the mint issue price. We remember being offered sets for as low as $1.50.

We have a copy of John W. Haseltine's "Type Table of U.S. Dollars, Half Dollars and Quarter Dollars," (published in 1881) interleaved and annotated by the famous numismatist, J. Colvin Randall.

One of his penned notations mentions a "quarter-dollar, 1845 over 1943 owned by Scott Stamp and Coin Company in February, 1890." Is this an unknown overdate or a recut date? Inasmuch as we have never seen a specimen of this coin, we would welcome correspondence with any one possessing one or having further information concerning it.

The American Journal of Numismatics, a scholarly numismatic magazine published from 1866 to 1924, always included a few numismatic jokes with each issue. Samples:

"A rare combination—dollars and sense." (October, 1870)

"Dies are engraved now—in Caesar's time the die was cast." (July, 1873)

"The Meanest man—one who promised his son a dollar to take a dose of castor oil, and then paid the debt in a counterfeit bill." (October, 1874)

"Why are numismatists naturally of a melancholic temperament? Because they meet with so many reverses." (October, 1875)

Tables Going Fast For Meeting

More than 30 bourse tables have already been reserved for the semi-annual convention of the Appalachian Confederation of Coin Clubs to be held in Newton, N.C., Saturday, March 25.

The meeting will be held in the American Legion Post on highway 321. Bourse tables are free, but must be reserved through Dr. James D. Cochran Jr., Box 468, Newton, representing the Piedmont Numismatic Society, host club.

It was reported at the last meeting of the Newton club that the convention would have on display the largest currency collection in eastern United States, and also some collections of gold coins.

At the last Saturday night auction, some unusual items were sold, including a Charlotte Mint gold dollar and a Rutherford Bechtler gold dollar, plus an 1877 Indian cent and others.

The club meets the second Thursday and last Saturday night of each month in the community room of the Citizens Savings and Loan Association in Newton. Visitors are welcome.

The auctions are held at the Saturday meetings, accompanied by free bourse tables and free refreshments. Bidders are frequently present from as many as seven states, the club reports.

Merit Medal Awarded To Dr. Wallace

Dr. Bruce L. Wallace, member of the San Diego, Calif., Numismatic Society, was recently presented with the society's Award of Merit Medal, for his many years of service to the group. Occasion was the annual banquet of the society.

He founded the society in 1947, served as president for a good many years, started a coin show at the County Fair, and served the organization in many other ways.

Also announced were awards for exhibits at the banquet. Best in show medal went to Helen Dixon for coins and currency issued during the Civil War. Paul Hamm, immediate past president, won first place for Federal and Confederate issues for the same period.

Second place was awarded to Anna Merle Panosh for a Medal of Honor issued to William Rufus Shafter for bravery in the Civil War at Fair Oaks, Va., on May 31, 1862. L. L. Lundberg was given third place for a display of Indian cents, two-cent coins and so-called dollars for the Civil War period.

Gasko To Be Guest Speaker

Members of the Ancient City Coin Club, St. Augustine, Fla., were scheduled to hear John Gasko in a program entitled "Money Merry Go Round", at their February meeting.

At the previous session, held in the Bennett Hotel, it was decided to have an educational program as a part of each meeting. At the same session, 1961 officers were installed, headed by P. V. Provenza as president. The others include:

Mrs. Dominic Spoto, first vice president; Mrs. John Thompson, second vice president; Charles Colee, secretary; Mrs. Raymond Young, treasurer, and Mrs. George Witmor, corresponding secretary.

California Show Officials Announce Exhibit Categories

Exhibits in the California State Numismatic Association convention will be divided into 11 categories, according to a report from the co-host club, East Bay of Oakland. These include:

A. United States; B. Ancient (to 476 A.D.); C. Medieval (476-1558); D. Modern Foreign (since 1558); E. Substitutes for money (tokens, odd and curious, etc.); F. Paper money; G. Orders and Decorations; H. Medals; I. Any other group; J. Juniors, and K. Coin dealers.

Judging will be based on "informativeness" (30 per cent), "originality and effectiveness" (30), "range and variety" (15), "neatness" (15), and "relative condition" (10).

Exhibit reservations should be made with Sidney T. Gilligan, 2534 Mathews Street, Berkeley 2, Calif. Exhibit space is free, but no exhibitor may occupy more than three cases, but he may exhibit in more than one category.

Co-host with the East Bay group is the Hayward Area Coin Club of Hayward, Calif., with its president, L. M. Bacon, being named as co-chairman with Don T. Thrall of the East Bay club. The convention is scheduled for April 13-16, as announced last November.

Far West Club Starts

What is expected to be the farthest west coin club in "continental" United States is being organized at Clallam Bay, Washington, according to a report from Corbett J. Turner of Clallam Bay. Name of the group is expected to be "Far West Collectors Club".

Sherbrooke Club Plans Activities

The Sherbrooke, Quebec, Coin Club has scheduled a Public Display and its annual banquet for Friday and Saturday, May 5 and 6, according to a report from the club. Final arrangements have not been completed.

Part of the program will include an auction, for which a catalogue will be issued and sent to other clubs with mail bids invited. Sherbrooke club members only may submit lots, but bidding will be open to anyone.

According to a club rule on auctions, members may place reserve bids on their own consignments. They also may bid on their own lots in the auction. If a member buys his own material at his reserve price, he pays the club 10 cents.

If he bids higher and buys his own lot, he must pay the regular 10 per cent commission that he would have paid if someone else had been successful.

The Sherbrooke club is working to revise its constitution, and is also considering incorporation and a change of name.

Port City To Hold Show

The third annual Spring Coin Show and Auction of the Port City Coin Club, Muscatine, Iowa, set for April 23 as reported in Coin World February 9, will be held in the club rooms of the Y.W.C.A. in Muscatine, according to a further announcement from the club.

Approximately 150 lots of choice material is being assembled for the afternoon auction. Dealers interested in bourse space, or anyone wishing to exhibit, should contact J. Harvey Burham, 402 Green Street, Muscatine. Bourse tables are $5 each, in advance.

Registration for the show will be free, and the public will be invited. A special award of a gold coin will be made.

Teen Center Sponsors Club In Winter Haven

The Winter Haven, Fla., Teen Center has organized a coin collectors' club open to interested persons of any age, according to Don Henry, director of the Center.

At its organizational meeting, the group was expected to elect officers and outline plans for future meetings. Claude Wray of the Haven Hobby House, was scheduled to display coins and discuss coin collecting.

Small Date Cents In Book

A 32-page copyright study entitled "The 1960 S. D. (Small Date) Cents" has been published by the Coin Collectors Association, Wewoka, Okla., an independent firm dedicated to assembling all possible facts and data on 1960 small date cents.

According to this study, large date cents were minted in quantities in January, 1960, at both Mints and fewer than two million small date 1960-P cents and much fewer than 73 million small date 1960-D cents were minted.

The booklet is filled with correspondence in response to a survey letter sent to nearly 250 coin dealers and collectors, and from reports of shipments of cents.

Other topics discussed in the study include proof sets, small date cents as collectors' items, delivery of roll and conclusions.

Further information concerning the booklet may be obtained by writing Coin Collectors Association, Box 1015, Wewoka, Okla.

Blue Ridge Tables Gone

All the 30 bourse tables allowed for the three day Blue Ridge Numismatic Association convention on August 11-13, have been reserved, according to a report from G. C. Sizemore, Greenville, S.C., general chairman.

Sizemore emphasized, however, that oral reservations are not final, and that at least one-half the fee of $20 for the three days must be paid and be confirmed by April 1. A printed program for the convention is being planned, and dealers will be listed.

The convention is scheduled for the Clemson House, 30 miles from Greenville and 130 miles from Atlanta, Ga., where the American Numismatic Association convention will be held the following week. Dates for the Blue Ridge affair were set at the request of some of the dealers who expect to attend the A.N.A. meeting, and prefer to stop en route.

The Romance of MONEY

By Ted Hammer

If everyone who thinks he has a 1943 bronze cent really has one, the coin will soon be out of the rare class.

The 1943 cent was of steel, zinc coated, made during the war to conserve on copper. Several years ago 1943 cents of bronze began showing up. These usually were the steel cents that had been given a copper coating. Mint officials denied that any 1943 bronze cents were minted.

Use of a magnet will show whether a steel cent has been coated to provide a "rarity," since it attracts steel but not copper. Next came altered dates, usually a 1913 or 1948 altered with an engraving or similar tool.

Walter Breen, New York City, recognized 1943 cent authority and numismatic researcher, has assembled much information on the subject of the bronze 1943 cents. Could there be genuine 1943 bronze cents despite denials of mint officials: Breen explains how there could be.

"Now just what were you saying about my going to the coin club tonight?"

Bronze cents were still minted in 1942. When mint operations ceased—perhaps on the last day or so of the old year—some bronze blanks were still in the hopper to be fed to coin presses. Thus, some 1943 bronze cents got into circulation, being overlooked by inspectors in the rush to meet demands for new coins.

This same thing would account for the 1944 steel cents reported found, although mint officials deny these were minted except in 1943.

Other methods of making phony 1943 bronze cents were listed by Breen as: casts, a method frequently used in counterfeiting; electrotyping, using hand engraved false dies; false die produced by hubbing (the most dangerous, although the most costly).

Cast and electrotypes can be checked by marks on the edges, by weight and lack of sharpness. A coin from a hand made die will be shown up by comparison with a 1943 steel cent.

A person going to the trouble of making a hub die can pick up a cent blank for $2 or less; dies can be made from another piece of steel and genuine 1943 cents are made of steel, explains Breen. Hardness tests, use of x-ray, microscopic study of details of the coin are needed to expose the phony made in this way.

Anyone purchasing a 1943 bronze cent should demand documented proof as to its history—who found it, where it was found, names of different owners and so on. Breen says he has seen examples turned out by all six processes.

For that reason, it is extremely unlikely that any such mistake or "error" would be unique, that is, appear on only one coin. It must show up on all coins struck from that particular working die as long as it is used.

Likewise, if there is a "slip" when the working die is made, if a screw is loose or something, and the working die moves between two blows from the master die, we get such things as the 1955 "shift" cent, which will show up on all the coins struck from that working die.

Further, dirt or metal shavings frequently get on the face of a die and we get "filled" letters or digits or other oddities. Maybe part of a die will become worn or broken and other kinds of oddities show up.

If the defect comes in a part of the coin that "stands out", then we have a spectacular error that becomes relatively valuable, for example, the 3-legged Buffalo nickel. Otherwise, the defective coin is not likely to be worth very much if anything, except to a specialist in "oddities", and only if he wants that one badly. This applies to such things as missing letters in mottoes, missing figures in dates, and the like.

The above information will serve as reply to a lot of readers who have written about the common errors, or who intended to. Dies that are overworked develop "die breaks" or "cracks" (cracked skull), fairly common; so are filled or missing letters, and "misplaced" mint marks.

One such that used to be fairly well known but seems to have either forgotten or ignored is the 1941-S and 1940-S "Broken nose" dime, in which the bridge of the nose is missing.

It happens in other years, also, but those two were spotted often enough to become a "type" of the 1940-S and 1941-S, or a "condition" of them. They are not die varieties because the die was not changed, and only one variety can come from a given die (see this column February 16).

Further remarks on the steel cents come from Bertha Orton, Pawhuska, Okla., who quotes from R. A. Wilson's "The American Coin Book", 25th edition, 1957, page 14:

"Millions of circulated steel cents have been melted in Pueblo (Colo., steel mills), and millions more have been dumped by the S and P Mints, 10 miles out in the Pacific and Atlantic Oceans".

COMMENT: Thank you, Mrs. Orton. Maybe we can get some more contributions on this subject, and find out something for sure.

I own a 1945 Lincoln cent with a double strike with two Lincolns at right angles to each other, and on the reverse "cents" reads in two different directions. What is this worth and should it be advertised for sale?

Ira J. Berk, M.D.
Los Angeles, Calif.

ANSWER: Kolman's "Numismatic Lincoln Cent Errors" estimates this at $20 to $40. It is caused by the coin not having been ejected from the press before the die strikes again, the coin having shifted position in the meantime. There is no reason why it should not be advertised.

ELKIN, N. C.

Fair To Very Fine Misplaced Mint Marks, Overdates Puzzle Readers

By James G. Johnson

N. B. Cooper of Oakland, Calif., writes me as follows:

"With all the talk re misplaced Mint Marks, etc., I wonder why no one noticed a rather unusual one, on the 1957-D Cent? The 'D' is not centered under the date, but is exactly under the digit 5. I believe this is as interesting as 'high or low', 'small and large', etc."

J. Johnson

Mr. Cooper you have something there. I do not recall ever noticing a mint mark as far to the right as the one you sent in. It should interest the collectors of mis-placed mint marks, and I am not belittling it, either.

Did you happen to notice, also, that your coin, which appears to be uncirculated, has a partially filled 5 and 9?

Thanks for the kind words at the end of your letter. I will return your coin shortly.

H. C. Bryan of Hermitage, Mo., writes that he has what appears to be an overdate Indian cent, 1894 over 1890. He wants to know if it has been recognized, and, if not, is there an expert in his area.

The only source I have at present is Walter Breen's 1955 study on overdates and recut dates. He mentions only the 1869 over 8 or 6 small cent. As for the expert, there is a Greater Ozarks Numismatic Association with a Springfield connection. I will write you an address personally, as we don't like to print street addresses (Burglars can read). In the meantime, some one else may write after they see this item.

Interim report to the 1934 Quarter Club: Harold DeHoff, Indianapolis, Ind., is a new member.

Mrs. Arnold Hall, Marthasville, Mo., has a problem, or two of them. She has two Walking Liberty half dollars with an "F" in place of "E" in Liberty, and wants to know about them.

The only answer I can give you is that in large coins, such errors are scarcer than in the smaller denominations, and should be worth a little more. They are caused, of course, by filled "dies" (see Collectors Clearinghouse, this issue).

Their value depends entirely on who wants them and how badly. Try the Society of Collectors of Numismatic Errors, the address of which has been printed here several times. If you are a new subscriber and don't have back copies, let me know and I will give it to you.

On your other problem, where you can find valuations for Australian coins, there are several foreign coin catalogues on the market, one of the best known being Whitman's Catalogue of Modern World Coins. If you can't locate one, send me a list of what you have, and their condition.

So much for the immediate mail. In the Collectors Clearinghouse this issue is an explanation of small and large dates, misplaced mint marks, and the like. I recommend it to all beginning collectors.

Also mentioned in the same connection are the 1941-S and 1940-S "Broken Nose" dimes. It could be that new collectors are not familiar with that particular item, and I have a special interest in it.

This particular type of 1941 and 1940 was made known to Jimmy and me about the same time as the 1934 Type I Quarter was, that is, shortly after we began collecting. We watched for them and saved any we found, for trading purposes only. There was no place for them in our collection, and we had no desire to save such oddities for ourselves.

That picture has now changed slightly. A couple of years ago, I was sorting out a batch of Mercury dimes to grade and price for sale. At that time I was a "short pants" or bourse table dealer at conventions. I noticed some of various dates that had broken noses to varying degrees, from what I called "barely broken" to "very broken" or "Busted Beaks".

It occurred to me that maybe I could make a set out of them, and sell it to an error collector. So I assembled the different dates and mint marks that I had, and put them in a Whitman folder. There were 59 different, or 60 if I counted a 1916-D I had but did not put in the folder. It was a "barely broken" one, but did qualify.

Schulman Reports

Coin Collecting Escapes Recession Says Schulman

By Hans M. F. Schulman

Our president has made a clear picture of our own situation both domestic and abroad, financial, economic, industrial and educational. From his speeches which will be remembered for many years we can notice that although we are passing through a difficult period, we should not be alarmed and with the right actions, we will soon be able to climb ahead. And with the right actions all of us are supposed to act. And all of us will hope that soon there will be only reason for rejoicing.

We numismatists can watch out that gold hoarding in any shape or form, here or abroad, will not take place under the beautiful term of "coin collecting". We are all too proud of our profession to have it lowered in our country's esteem.

You have heard many explanations why a certain recession in many businesses and industry has taken place and one of them is of course "over-production" and "over-inventories". Thousands of workers in these "over-produced" industries have been laid off which has carried other effects with them.

That coin collecting has not been affected by this recession and may very well not be influenced by it at all, lies in a few most unusual facts.

We are dealing in a product which has become so scarce that there is a much greater demand than supply. Why has it become so scarce? The fact that many collections have been given to institutions and museums including single items has taken thousands of coins off the market, which in the old days used to come up for sale again and again whenever a collector passed away or got tired of collecting.

Now a gift by the estate or by him while alive is a more profitable way of disposing if the owner or estate is in an unusually high tax bracket. The second reason of the scarcity is, because of the inflationary buying by the wealthy from Germany and Italy in particular, who have been forming immense collections and draining the coins away from all over the world, paying high prices.

And last....and this applying particularly to the less expensive coins.... coin collecting has become a national and international hobby of the young and the old alike like stamps many years ago. Everybody is coin conscious here and abroad and even the cheap coins are being drained off the market into the exhibit boards and cards which are being manufactured all over the country to house the treasures of the new collector.

No wonder that in this growing worldwide hobby a slight recession should not be felt. And by the time that this recession could be felt in the coin community, I feel that the national recession will be over, because of the practical policies introduced by our government.

It is a good thing to remark here that many a slack in business is self-created. If Mr. A. tells Mr. B. that his business is bad and particularly if he exaggerates (as he mostly does) and that he expects it to get worse, Mr. B. will get a bit panicky about it and will withdraw into himself and restrain from new business, telling Mr. C. how bad things really are, etc. etc. Many recessions have been self-created and also self-cured.

I would like to point out that if there is talk about a coin recession, I would say that this would be like spreading "bad rumors". For a while this profession should not suffer from anything but a lack of material; more customers for less coins and be sure to realize it all the time. Do not spread rumors: do not harm yourself, your neighbor or your country.

Personal news: Your correspondent proposes for new president to follow cousin Jacques Schulman after eight years of IAPN rule, our great numismatist, Xavier Calico of Barcelona, Spain, a specialist in Spanish and Spanish American numismatics, writer of many articles and books; feature writer of the best foreign numismatic magazine, NOMISMA, organ of the Ibero-American Society of Numismatics.

For secretary, to succeed the able present secretary, Dr. Herbert Cahn, who has devoted over 10 years to the IAPN and who deserves the admiration of all, we propose the French numismatist, Emil Bourgey, successor of an old numismatic house.

No further news has been reported on the details of the different conventions to be held in Rome and as soon as meeting places and details are available we will report them. Also no late news about the issue of the Andorra 50 diners or dollar of which the dies are now ready to strike the issue. Latest details will be reported when received.

Your columnist is grateful to one of our great national numismatists, John J. Pittman, of Rochester, for many a numismatic information, correction or advice sent to further our profession at its best. John, as you know, is a numismatist who has great knowledge in an unusual large group of fields of numismatics. He rates with the highest.

We hear from Henry Christensen that he may plan some public auctions this year to alternate with his well known mail auctions.

medals from a well known collection. These Galleries are the largest, most important auction house in the world. They sell the most famous antiques, antiquities, objects of art, jewelry, paintings, old furniture, old books and whatever the arts and hobbies entail—and of that, always the best and the finest—catalogued by experienced hands in a delicate fine manner.

The Galleries are located at Madison avenue and 76th street in the heart of the art section of New York and comprise a full block. President Leslie Hyam is a man of many capacities who made the Galleries into the most successful operation of a fine auction house in the world assisted by dynamic go-getter, Lois Marion, who has the capacity of being in seven places at the same time.

And from time to time the most wonderful coins and medals have come from the auctions of Parke Bernet like the 1804 dollar recently sold by Stacks for $28,000 dollars—it once was bought in a Parke Bernet sale. One of their auctioneers was connected for many years with selling coins at auction before joining the Galleries. Cheerful Teddy Muldoon may be remembered by many of us coin collectors and if you want to see him in action—just go to the Galleries and listen.

Visitors to New York should have a look at the exhibitions or the auctions; it is one of the New York sights. They publish a bulletin giving their monthly activities and if interested to receive same, you may write to the Galleries and state your artistic interest. Catalogues are sent only on payments of subscriptions.

We hear from the many well known curators around the country that their mail from collectors increases regularly. More and more people sent letters to the museums asking for explanations on coins and medals. We must caution these many correspondents to be patient if they do not get a quick answer because many of these curators are working very hard to keep their work up to date and to receive the many visitors.

V. Clain-Stefanelli, the versatile curator at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington particularly receives an enormous mail of people who want to know about "a coin or a medal" they have. When I say "versatile" I mean that this knowledge of general numismatics is so large that it covers many fields of numismatics.

And did you know that Mrs. Clain-Stefanelli is a numismatist, too? And a good one at that. And she too assists the numismatic department at the Smithsonian Institution, a branch of the National Museum in Washington.

More about the Dutch Colonial coins in the American colonies in a future column . . .

Hydeman 1804 Dollar Outstanding

ably with the 1804 dollar and the 1913 Liberty nickel.

In discussing the 1804 dollar he says the Hydeman specimen is better than the dollar that sold recently in New York for $28,000. He said it should go in the west coast sale for $40,000 or more.

On the 1913 Liberty nickel, officials said, it is known that $25,000 has been refused for another example, and the consignor of this one has reserved the right to put a $50,000 minimum bid price on it.

It is not impossible that for the four coins mentioned alone, a total of a quarter of a million dollars could change hands at this convention, according to some observers.

Value of the 1876-CC 20 cent coin has been put at $10,000 or more, and the 1894-S dime at close to that figure. The 1876-CC was previously owned by the composer, Jerome Kern.

First item in the sale is one that not many collectors own, the 1856 Flying Eagle pattern cent, which Kosoff values at $725. Some of the other better or scarcer lots, with estimates, include:

Broken Bank Note Field Contains Four Categories

By Hank Bieciuk

There are three general classifications into which all coins can be classified—proof, uncirculated and circulated. (Pattern coins are excluded since they were only designer's models and not the actual finished coin.) A fourth classification can be added to the field of broken bank notes, namely that of uncut sheets. A breakdown of this classification would look something like this:

Hank Bieciuk
ed to the field of broken bank notes, namely that of uncut sheets. A breakdown of this classification would look something like this:

1. Proof or specimen notes
2. Uncut sheets of notes
3. Uncirculated notes
4. Circulated notes

Let us examine each classification a little more closely, especially the first two since they differ from coins greatly.

1. Proof or specimen notes. Like coins, these notes are the finest available, the "cream of the crop." Unlike coins, they were not made for the collector. How, then, did they come into existence? The story behind these notes is very interesting and quite unusual.

When a new bank or company was organized, notes were ordered from a printing and engraving firm. The engraving firm would submit samples of vignettes and then changes and additions were made of the artist's working model. When all details were worked out, the finished and complete note was engraved on a steel plate. Using a special porous paper, an impression was taken of this plate. This was the proof note and was submitted to the bank or company for final approval before actual printing of the entire issue was begun.

This proof note was printed on either India paper, a soft bamboo fiber paper backed by cardboard, or on proof paper, a more durable rice paper that required no backing. These two types of paper were used because they are very soft and porous and bring out all the fine details of the finished engraving to a much higher degree than the rag or bond paper used for regular issue notes. The engraving firms were artists and wanted to present the finest possible piece of work to their potential customer.

Generally, proof notes have very small punch holes along the signature lines of the cashier and president to prevent anyone from using them as actual issue notes. These holes, however, do not make a note a proof since they can be added to any uncirculated note at any time. The real test of any proof note is in the paper.

2. Uncut sheets. This is a new category for the coin collector. When an issue of notes was completed by the engraving firm, it was delivered to the bank in sheet form, as printed. Most notes were printed as four notes to the sheet, although there are sheets of two, six and eight notes. Some sheets are all of one denomination, four notes of the same denomination. Some sheets contained 2 different denominations, some 3 and others 4 different denominations. The lower denominations were usually printed as $1, $1, $2 and $3 on a sheet.

These uncut sheets were delivered to the bank; then, as needed, they were signed by the cashier and president, dated, numbered, cut apart and put into circulation. Uncut sheets are a marvelous display item and as a rule are much more scarce than the single notes. Fortunately, there are some common sheets that can still be purchased for $7 to $8 per sheet.

U.S. COMMEMORATIVE HALF DOLLARS

Booker T. Washington — George W. Carver

I recommend these as one of the best coin investments today because . . .

- 1) They are coins (50c pieces) struck at the U.S. mint, not medals.
- 2) Most dates have a very low mintage.
- 3) This is one of the very few series that has not "sky-rocketed" price-wise in the past five years and although they are now on the rise, can still be purchased reasonably.
- 4) No recent collection of U.S. coins or Uncirculated mint set is complete without commemoratives.

Broken Bank Note Beauties

Fair-Fine . . .

I put it on sale at several conventions as a "starter set" which if completed would probably be unique among oddities. It was reasonably priced, but I had no takers. So, when I joined the Coin World staff, I decided I would complete the set myself, just for the fun of it.

So now I am an "error" collector with a specialty—broken nose dimes. This is not a hint for people to shower me with offers to sell. I want only the 18 missing dates and mint marks, and I have no intention of buying them. If I can't find them, I don't want them, because finding them is two-thirds of the fun I get out of it.

In case anyone does not understand how to spot a broken nose dime, I will try to make it clear. Normally, the line from the forehead to the tip of the nose is sharp and almost straight, with the forehead jutting out very slightly beyond where that line starts, the upper part of the line being the bridge of the nose. To the right of the bridge line, there is a small recession leading to the eye.

On a "broken nose" dime, the bridge line is missing and it looks as though the "field" extended to the eye. Sometimes a magnifying glass is needed to see it, and sometimes it can only be seen by looking at the coin at an angle, with Mercury partially facing toward the observer. The larger the break, the more obvious it is, of course. (Please don't anybody tell me that the head is not "Mercury" but "Liberty". I am aware of that, but who calls it anything but Mercury?)

Incidentally, I have a Roosevelt dime that has a bigger break in the nose than any Mercury I ever saw. I will trade that, too, as I have no use for it, although I might take a notion to put it at the end of my Roosevelt series, just for effect. It's a thought, anyway.

That would seem to be enough on broken nose dimes for awhile. I have been told that sometimes I am hard to stop, once I get started on a subject. If I have said too much on this one, forgive me.

I would like to refer back, now, to what I wrote Mr. Bryan, earlier in this column, about over-ates. Breen's study, reported in the February, 1955, Numismatic Scrapbook Magazine, is an interesting one. I recommend it to anyone who thinks he has an over-date.

See you next week.

lie in collecting uncut sheets and I know of one collection that contains over 350 different sheets. Another has over 500 different and each has several sheets that the other lacks. So, it is quite easy to see why this field can be so interesting and rewarding to the collector.

3. Uncirculated notes. Like coins, these are notes that have never been in circulation. Some of these crisp notes are fully signed, dated and numbered and were probably issued but did not circulate for one reason or another. Many of these notes are unsigned simply because the bank or company failed before the notes could be utilized. All crisp uncirculated notes are in great demand and bring a premium on the market.

4. Circulated notes. This, of course, is self explanatory. Some of these circulated notes were redeemed and have various types of cancellations. A number of circulated notes are unknown in any other condition since the entire issue of notes was put into circulation.

Almost Everyone Prefers America's First Family of Coin Albums

THE LIBRARY OF COINS

By Any Standard, Still The Best!

Complete visibility and complete protection, the two most-wanted features of a coin album, are presented for the first time by THE LIBRARY OF COINS. Bound like books, handsome and compact, each Library of Coins volume displays and protects its coins between two sliding panels of clear, tough plastic. Each coin "porthole" has printed next to it full data on mint mark and quantity minted. Each volume contains a brief background story on the coins, giving both the novice and advanced collector helpful information, including a listing of the rare dates.

Measuring 8 1/4" x 6 1/4", the volumes are low priced, sturdily manufactured, and permanently bound in a variety of identifying colors for the various denominations. Their compact size permits the storing of a large coin collection in very small space. Backbones are clearly gold stamped so that they are as readily identifiable as are books.

The Library of Coins represents the first major innovation in high grade coin albums in more than 30 years, and was several years in development. Designed by numismatists, the Library of Coins is designed to satisfy the needs and desires of numismatists. Write for descriptive circular on the Library of Coins.
